I think Todd Pruitt is exactly right about the "eat the meat, spit out the bones" approach to Critical Theory and its offshoots. It's not that you can never find the occasional insight. It's that there is no insight there that can only be found there, and it's a dangerous source to send people to. Pruitt writes: 'Few (if any) would say that there are no true statements or insights

Question: "What are the responsibilities of deacons in the church?"

Answer: In the New Testament, the word usually translated "serve" is the Greek word diakoneo, which literally means "through the dirt." It refers to an attendant, a waiter, or one who ministers to another.
